City Of Las Vegas To Close Senior Centers Indefinitely

Centers To Close In Wake Of National Emergency Declaration And Need To Protect Vulnerable Populations

The city of Las Vegas will close five senior centers and a portion of a community center that serves senior citizens indefinitely beginning Saturday, March 14. Today's declaration of a national Coronavirus emergency included direction to protect our most vulnerable populations such as seniors. The city will close its senior centers to comply with this direction.

The centers will be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected during the closure. In addition, they will be prepared should they need to be repurposed for community use or city employee use in the wake of the Coronavirus outbreak. The city is making these preparations to help ensure vital services can still be provided to city residents should the situation require.

This decision was entered into with careful thought and in the best interests of our entire community. The city continues to work with local and state agencies including the Southern Nevada Health District to monitor the situation.
